Youth Comment on Impact of Project

- A place where our voices can be heard
- Act of social justice and collaboration for our community
- Someone who can help us get our voices heard and spread our message
- Using our efforts to benefit the greater good
- Advocating for problems in SF
- An act of kindness
- A collaborative effort between programs to help our community and bring change
- Learning to work together to help our community
- An opportunity for us youth to talk about the issues we are passionate about and help out the ones in need

Lending a Hand: Project Focus

“Lending a Hand” addresses some of the pressing issues impacting the residents of Bayview Hunters Point in San Francisco. The focus of the project is on addressing the importance of free quality education, equality, the notable impact inflicted on the homeless due to the pandemic, the violence directed towards the AAPI community and black solidarity, and overall helping the community. We faced challenges deciding how to deliver this message but ultimately understood that as Digital Natives, we can create impact by publishing a digital gallery where our voices can be heard.

I always wonder what will the world be like if everyone has this kind of mindset voices were suddenly yelling, and the people were moving back.

when the sounds got too loud, it ensued.
